Haste, haste my love, why linger now?
The sun is shedding his parting glow,
The Chamois seeks his peaceful glade,
And homeward wanders the mountain maid.
Oh come then and cheer me,
My own one! My fond one!
Again thou shalt hear me sing love's tender strain,
While ev'ry note, my lips repeat,
As soft and sweet, thoul't breathe again.
Then haste my love! why linger now?
The sun is shedding his parting glow,
The Chamois seeks his peaceful glade,
And homeward wanders the mountain maid.
Hark! hark! I hear his well known cry,
While answ'ring echo makes reply,
Now, now, he waves his scarf of green,
He comes he comes my Tyrolien!
Once more I behold him,
My dear one! My fond one!
To my bosom I'll fold him,
My own Tyrolien!

Dice que lo ha de matar
Del pellejo hará un Pandero
Lo que fuere Sonará .

3

Que se muera la Cachucha
Y la lleven a enterrar
Y el Sereny compassivo
Le cante su funeral
Sereny &c.

The following is nearly a literal translation of the above unique specimen of Spanish Verse .

1

All the world sings the Cachucha,-for me
I sing Sereny love of thee !
Opinions are various.—Taste doth deny
That all for one object should sigh
Sereny, thou pleasest me !
Sereny, I love thee !
Sereny, yes I die for thee !
Ah! me .

2

Sereny has a Dog, Ah the cruel! he saith
He'll deprive the poor thing of its breath
And of his skin he will then make a Drum
To his taste to play upon .
Sereny &c .

3

O let the Cachucha, for me, be hung,
And o'er it a Shroud be flung !
Then to me Sereny, out of pity 'twill bring
Its funeral ditty to sing .
Sereny &c .

3.

Vain alas thy fever'd longing;
Sooner through night's purple dome
Mays't thou reach yon isle of radiance,
Than thy citron girdled home.

4.

Ne'er again by chrystal fountain,
With the myrtle bloom above
When the rosy hours are fading,
May I list the voice I love.

5.

Like a cloud I am departing,
Or a star that seeks the sea:
Ere the morning sun is shining,
Cold and still this heart will be.

6.

Cease my heart this sad desponding,
Soon thy sorrows will be o'er:
Thou hast wander'd like the billow,
But to break on foreign shore.

3.

In die Heimath möcht ich wieder,
Aber bald, ach ja recht bald,
Möcht' zum Vater, möcht' zur Mutter
Möcht' zu Berge, Thal und Wald.

4.

Möcht' die Berge wieder sehen,
Und die lautern Gletscher d'ran,
Wo die Gemsen muthig klettern
Und kein Jäger vorwärts kann.

5.

Möcht' die Glocken wieder hören
Wenn der Hirt zu Berge treibt,
Und die Kinder lustig springen,
Und kein Lamm zu Hause bleibt.

6.

Wiedersehn die bunten Häuschen
Und vor alle Thüren gehn,
Nachbarsleute freundlich grüssen,
Und mit Liebchen traulich stehn.

7.

Möcht' auf Flur und Höhen steigen,
Möcht' am heitern blauen See,
Wo der Bach am Felsen schäumet,
Unser Dörflein wiedersehn.

8.

Keiner hat uns lieb da draussen,
Keiner drückt so warm die Hand,
Und kein Kindlein will mehr lächeln,
Wie daheim im Schweizerland.

9.

Auf und fort und führ mich wieder
Wo's mir jung so wohl gefiel
Hab' nicht Lust und hab' nicht Freude
Bis ich in mein Dörflein bin.

10.

Herz mein Herz, o lass das Trauern,
S'ist ein Schicksal, füg dich d'rein,
Will es Gott, der kann's ja lenken
Dass wir bald zu Hause seyn.

MANNER OF HOLDING THE GUITAR.

Royal Academy of Music Library

OF HOLDING THE GUITAR.

This elegant instrument is held in a gracefully reclining position, gently resting upon the right thigh: the front inclining outwards; the Neck elevated and resting between the Thumb and second Finger of the left hand; the left arm being gently raised and the wrist turned, so that the fingers may cross the strings as nearly as possible at right angles. This position of the fingers necessarily governs the degree of opliquity in which the Guitar should be held, and is not only the most graceful, but also the best to command the finger board.

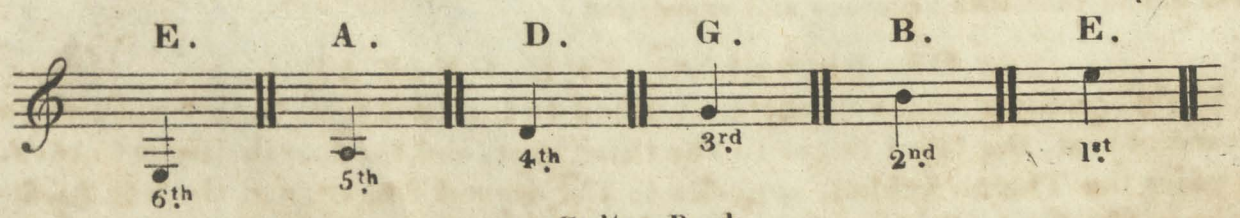
The right hand is passed over the body of the Instrument, the little finger resting on the sound board, as a support to the hand, not far from the first string, and rather nearer the Bridge than the Sound hole. The hand will then assume a semi-circular form over the strings, the thumb and first three fingers being freely bent and at liberty to be used, according as the nature of the passages may require.
The three Silvered strings are generally struck with the thumb.

It is customary for Ladies to attach a Ribbon to each end of the Guitar, and sling it over the left shoulder; this to a certain extent sustains the Instrument, and leaves the hands more at liberty for passages requiring execution.

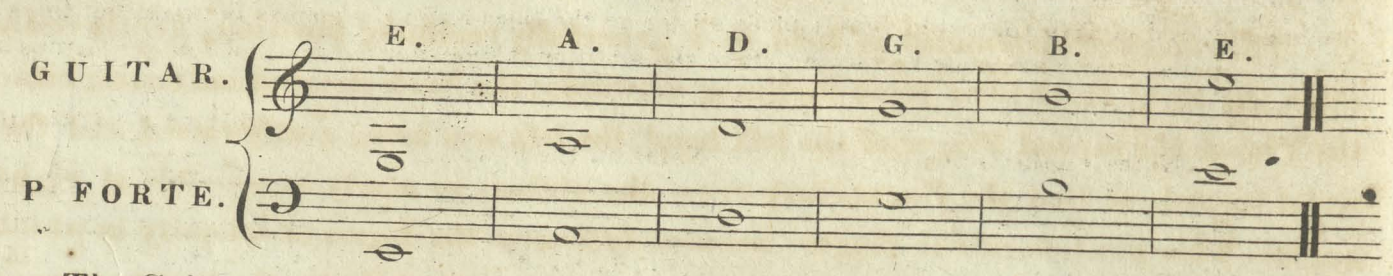
OF TUNING THE GUITAR.

This is perhaps one of the greatest, and unfortunately the most unavoidable difficulties, which the pupil has to encounter at the commencement, and will in every case be best taught by a master; but as these Lessons may in all probability fall into the hands of some who do not possess the advantage of oral instruction, some directions, as to the best mode of tuning, appear to be indispensable.

Observe, therefore, that the Spanish Guitar is tuned by Fourths; except the second String, which should be only the interval of a Third above the third String; and that the Six Open Strings, when correctly tuned, should sound the following Notes.



It must be remarked, however, that the real tones of the Spanish Guitar are all an Octave lower in relation to the established Concert Pitch than written on the Staff and consequently, the following Notes, though differently expressed in Guitar and Piano Forte Music, ought to sound in Unison on the two Instruments.



The Guitar may thus easily be tuned to a Piano Forte; and as most beginners will at first find it difficult to comprehend a fall of "two Octaves" as hereafter directed perhaps this simple method may be preferable, until the ear becomes sufficiently familiarised to the correct sounds of the Strings, by practice and playing, to enable the student to tune them in the proper way. When this very easy method is adopted, to prove whether correctly tuned, press every String except the Third, which must be pressed at the fourth fret, at the fifth fret, and if the next open string sounds exactly in unison with the one thus stopped, it is perfect. Indeed the Instrument may be tuned solely after this method of proof. The following, however, is recommended to the learner as the best.

Manner of tuning by an A. Fork or A of the Piano Forte.

3rd String.. finger on 2nd fret tune to an A Fork or Piano Forte . . . . .

5th Do.. open with the above note . . . . . .

5th Do. . . . . 5th fret . . . . . with 4th String open. or D. . . . . .

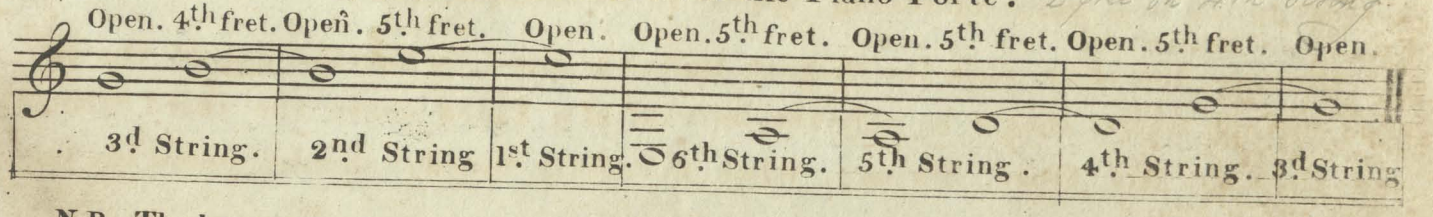
4th Do. . . . 5th Do. . . . . 3rd Do. . . . Do. or G. . . . . .

3rd Do. . . . 4th Do. . . . . 2nd Do. . . . Do. or B. . . . . .

2nd Do. . . . 5th Do. . . . . 1st Do. . . . Do. or E. . . . . .

6th Do.. open . . . . . with 1st Do. . . . Do. or E. . . . . .

Manner of tuning by an G. Fork or G. of the Piano Forte.



N.B. The learner must not be discouraged if this process should prove a little troublesome, and at first occupy more time than may be agreeable; a little practice will soon enable a tolerably correct ear to tune with accuracy and expedition.

OF PLAYING THE GUITAR.

Apply the first finger of the Left Hand to the first fret, the second finger to the second fret, the third finger to the third fret, and the fourth finger to the fourth fret: place the Thumb behind, opposite to the second finger, and the left hand will then be in the first position.

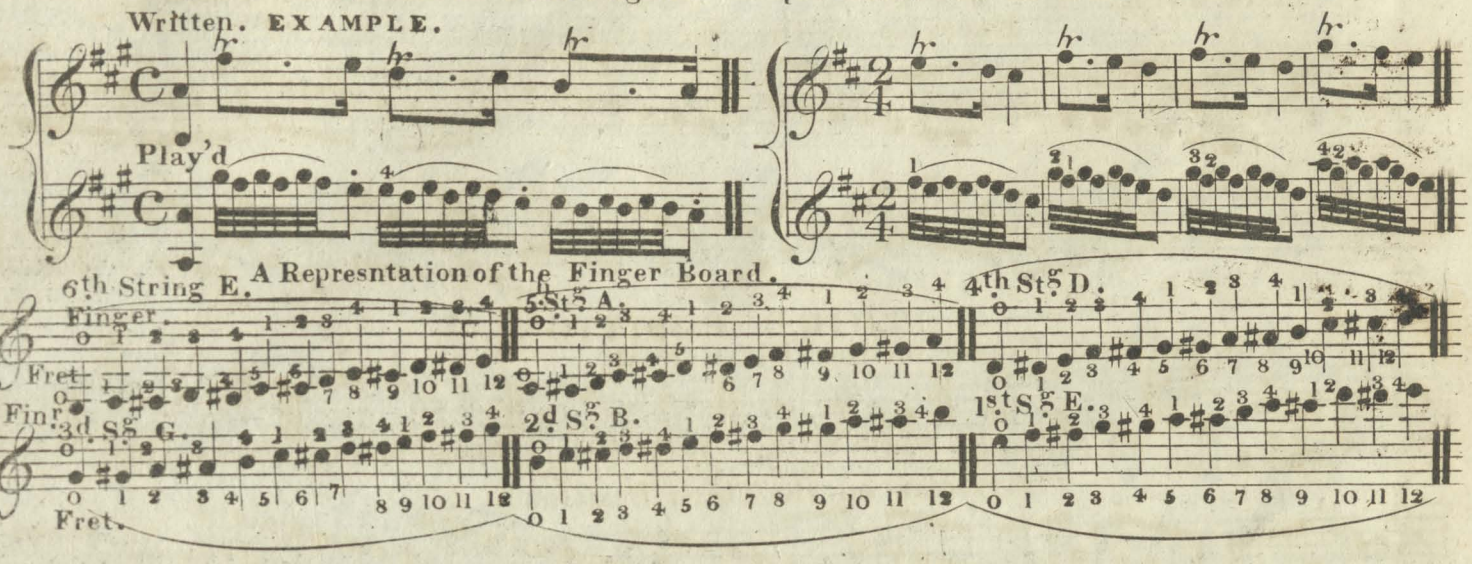
OF SHAKES or TRILLS.

The Shake is a useful ornament but which requires some practice to be effected upon this instrument, the common Shake thus tr is made by quickly moving the Note above to the succeeding one

STUDY.

Very useful for learning to make the Shake with all the fingers of the Left hand. NB. This is intended for daily practice.



OF THE POSITIONS.

There are different Positions the meaning of which is that the hand takes up a new situation commencing with the first finger from any specified Fret required, instead of keeping to the original Position at the Nut being absolutely neces sary to execute various Passages which may occur.

There are five different Positions which may be made on the Finger board the following are the SCALES of the 2d 3d 4th and 5th positions in the Key of C. but in playing in this Key it is only that of the 3d and sometimes the 5th which ought to be used and which is followed by Scales and Examples in different Keys.

In playing in the Key of F. the 3d and 5th position is chiefly used and in playing in G. or D. the fourth position In playing in A. the 5th and sometimes the 4th and in playing in E. the 2d and sometimes the 5th is used In the 2d position which will be found at the 3d Fret and if it meets a passage in A. Sharp the hand is forced back to the 4th Fret.

The Spanish Guitar has its favorite Keys and in their running passges have their pecular positions, a perfect know ledge of the Positions must be the result of intense study and practice.

The Guitar produces harmonic or sounds imitating a Flageolet, those produced on the 5th 7th and 12th frets are clear. those or the other frets are not so good.

They are produced by pressing very light on the String with a finger of the left hand, in pressing, you lay the finger entirely across the finger board, and strike the String close to the Bridge with the thumb of the right hand.

Exercise for practising the Harmonics.

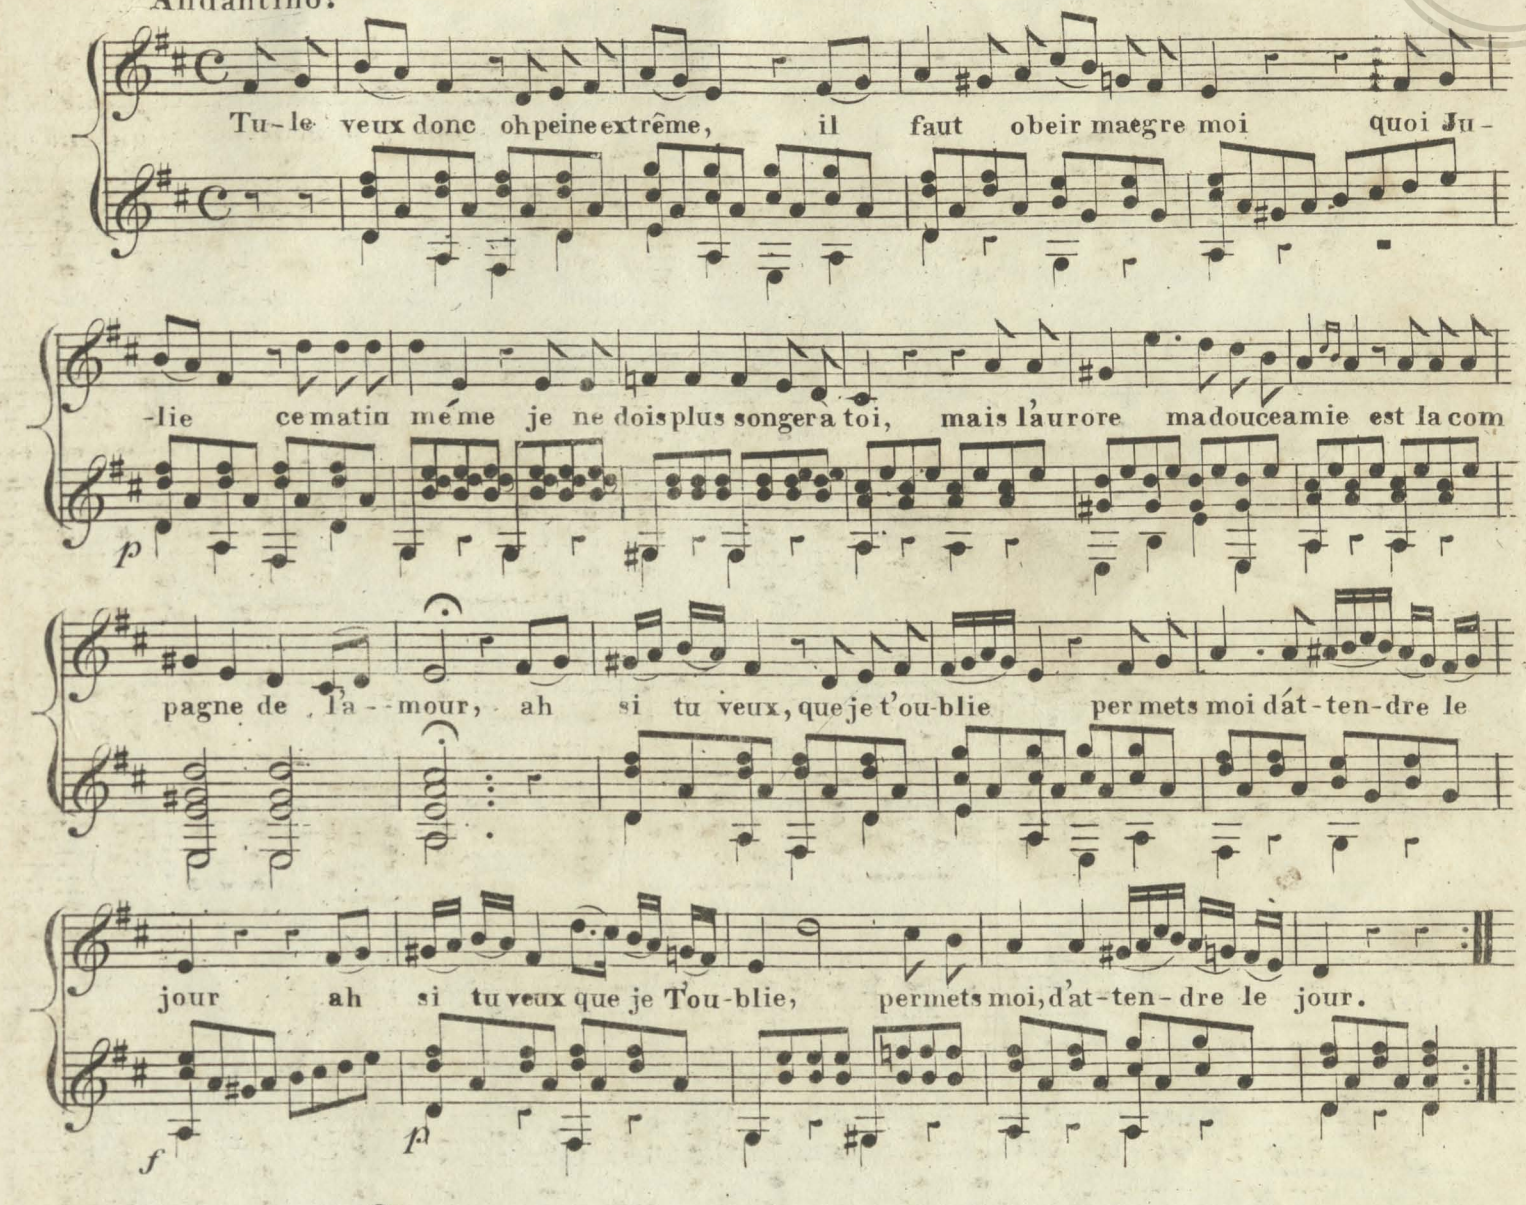
TU LE VEUX DONC.

Andantino.



2

Le jour remplace l'aurore
Mais vois, si je suis malhereux
Une rose qui vient d'eclore,
Soudain te rappelle a mes yeux
Hélas, dans chaque fleur jolie
Je me semble toujours te voir
Ah! si tu veux, que je t'oublie
Permets moi, d'attendre le soir.

3

Le soir reveur et solitaire
Je m'enferme dans un vallon
Mais mon coeur ne sauroit se taire
Et j'entends répéter ton nom
Je ne sais par quelle magie
L'echo sans cesse le redit
Ah! si tu veux que je t'oublie
Permets moi, d'attendre la nuit

4

La nuit vient fermer ma paupière
Bientot dans un rêve enchanteur
Je me semble, o douce chimère
Que je te tiens contre mon coeur
De t'obeir ma tendre amie
Tu vois que je m'efforce en vain
Ah! si tu veux, que je t'oublie
Permets moi, d'attendre à demain.

5

Mais demain renaitra l'aurore
La rose charmera mes yeux.
Je t'entendrai nommer encore
Par un Echo mysterieux,
Et comme les jours de la vie.
Sont tous, semblables dans leurs cours
Ah! si tu veux, que je t'oublie
Permets moi, d'attendre toujours.

They bid me seek in change of scene,
The charms that others see;
But where I in a foreign land,
They'd find no change in me,

But how can I forget.

For oh. there are so many things,
Recall the past to me,
The breeze upon the sunny hills,
The billows of the sea,
The rosy tint that decks the sky,
Before the sun is set,
Aye ev'ry leaf I look upon,

They tell me she is happy now
The gayest of the gay,

She never can forget.
